Praise ALLAH

Oh, praise to Allah, the one and only
Whose greatness shines through eternity.

In every moment, in every prayer we make,
Our souls find solace in His embrace,

For He is Allah, the One and Only, awake,
To guide us through life's intricate maze.

No matter the trials, no matter the fears,
He is with us, His mercy forever near,

In Him, our hearts find solace and cheers,
To face life's challenges without a tear.

Oh, praise to Allah, the one and only,
Whose greatness shines through eternity.

He is Allah, the One and Only, divine,
Whose presence fills the heavens and the earth,

Let His name be praised, in every rhyme,
For He is the source of our eternal worth.

Oh, praise to Allah, the one and only,
Whose greatness shines through eternity

In the realm where time and space entwine,
There resides a being, divine and grand,

Whose mercy glows, a radiant design,
The Merciful Allah, ruler of this land.

His presence vast, fills every earthly space,
His love, a river flowing deep and wide,

He watches over every living trace,
With guiding light, He is forever by our side.

Benevolence, a cloak adorning Him,
His compassion, like a gentle embrace,

He hears each prayer, though whispered or grim,
And grants His mercy, with abundant grace.

Oh, Merciful Allah, our hearts doth sing,
To Your benevolence, let our souls cling.

Your mercy reaches far, beyond the skies,
Embracing all, no matter creed or race,

Through trials and tribulations, it applies,
A balm for wounded hearts, a saving grace.

In times of sorrow, when tears freely flow,
The Merciful Allah, a solace near,

He wipes away the pain, a gentle blow,
Instilling hope, dispelling every fear.

The lost, the broken, find solace in His care,
For His mercy, a beacon in the night,

He mends the broken hearts with tender repair,
Guiding them towards His eternal light.

Oh, Merciful Allah, our souls rejoice,
In Your compassion, we find our true voice.

With compassion boundless, like oceans vast,
The Merciful Allah, His mercy knows no bounds,

Forgiving sins, present, future, and past,
In His forgiveness, redemption is found.

No sin too great, no heart beyond repair,
His mercy reaches to the darkest of souls,

With open arms, He welcomes those who dare,
To seek His forgiveness, to make them whole.

He showers blessings, like rain from above,
Upon the righteous and the wayward too,

His mercy, a gift, a symbol of His love,
A promise of eternal life, anew.

Oh, Merciful Allah, our spirits soar,
In Your mercy, we find forevermore.

So, let us seek the mercy of our Lord,
In humble prayer, with hearts sincere and true,

For in His mercy, we find our reward,
A life of purpose, guided by what's due.

In every breath, let gratitude arise,
For the Merciful Allah, who shows the way,

His mercy, like a beacon in our skies,
Guiding us closer, day after day.

Oh, Merciful Allah, we humbly pray,
In Your mercy, may we forever stay.

In the realm where celestial wonders shine,
Resplendent in His mercy, Allah reigns,

Creator of galaxies, vast and divine,
His boundless grace eternally sustains.

With tender care, He molded every soul,
With love and wisdom, formed the human frame,

A masterpiece, each intricate, unique role,
His mercy, like a river, knows no shame.

When darkness veils the path that we must tread,
His light descends, a beacon in the night,

Guiding us through trials, fear and dread,
With mercy's touch, He grants us strength and might.

Oh Merciful Allah, we humbly pray,
Guide us on the path, each and every day.

His mercy knows no bounds, a boundless sea,
Where sinners find redemption, grace untold,

He forgives, transforms, sets the spirit free,
With mercy's wings, He mends the broken mold.

When hearts are heavy, burdened by despair,
He soothes the wounds that time cannot erase,

With tender mercy, mends what's torn and bare,
And fills our lives with hope, abundant grace.

Though we may stumble, lose our way in life,
His mercy, like a compass, leads us true,

Through trials and tribulations, pain and strife,
His endless mercy carries us anew.

Oh Merciful Allah, we humbly pray,
Guide us on the path, each and every day.

The bounty of His mercy knows no end,
In every breath, His love and kindness flow,

From sunrise to sunset, His blessings send,
A symphony of grace, a divine show.

In nature's tapestry, His mercy gleams, Through fragrant blooms and birdsong's sweet refrain,

In gentle breezes and majestic streams,
His mercy whispers, "Beloved, I remain."

So let us bow our heads in gratitude,
For Allah's mercy, vast and ever near,

With every word and deed, let us exude,
His mercy's essence, radiant and clear.

Oh Merciful Allah, we humbly pray,
Guide us on the path, each and every day.

In this sonnet, we sing of Allah's grace,
His mercy, like a sun, forever bright,

May we seek His love, in every place,
And walk with Him, in mercy's holy light.

Oh Merciful Allah, we humbly pray,
Guide us on the path, each and every day,

Embrace us with Your mercy, we implore,
And let Your endless love forever stay.

In realms unseen, where mystic wonders dwell,
Resides the Beneficent, Allah so grand,

His mercy vast, His wisdom none can tell,
Creator of all, the earth and heavens spanned.

With tender care, He guides each soul's embrace,
A gentle touch, a shelter from despair,

His love, a beacon, lighting up each space,
Divine compassion, beyond compare.

In awe we stand, before His mighty throne,
Lost in His grace, His radiance divine,

The stars, His jewels, His cosmic masterpiece,
Each atom sings His praise, in perfect rhyme.

Oh Allah, source of light, of truth and love,
In reverence we bow, to Thee above.

Oh, Beneficent Allah, hear my plea,
In awe I stand before your boundless might,

Creator of all, from land to vast sea,
In every breath, your grace shines ever bright.

Your love, a river, flowing through my veins,
Guiding my steps on this earthly terrain,

You grant me strength to bear life's heavy chains,
And in my heart, your mercy shall remain.

The sun, a witness to your wondrous art,
Your gentle touch paints colors in the sky,

Oh, Allah, your benevolence sublime,
A gift that echoes through the sands of time.

In every star that twinkles in the night,
I glimpse your mercy and your tender care,

Though I am but a speck within your sight,
You listen to my prayers with love so rare.

You lift me up when life has brought me low,
Your guiding hand, a beacon in the dark,

Through trials and tribulations, I shall grow,
For in your mercy, I find my true spark.

Your boundless wisdom, like a boundless sea,
A source of solace, a compass for my soul,

In your embrace, I find serenity,
For you alone can make my spirit whole.

Oh, Allah, your beneficence divine,
A love so vast, it stretches through all time.

In every act of kindness that I see,
I witness your compassion shining through,

For in the hearts of those who seek to be,
Your love and mercy flourish and renew.

You teach us patience, in times of despair,
To trust in you, and in your perfect plan,

For you alone know what is just and fair,
And with your guidance, we shall surely stand.

Oh, Allah, your grace, a boundless sea,
An endless source of love and harmony,

With every breath, I offer thanks to thee,
For in your mercy, I am truly free.

Oh, Beneficent Allah, hear my plea,
Your love and mercy, my eternal plea.

A boundless love, a guiding beacon bright,
Shines forth from Allah, the Protector, we believe.

With words divine, the Quran's sacred verse,
Reveals His mercy, boundless and profound,

A testament to His eternal love's traverse,
Through heavens vast, His grace doth resound.

Surrounds creation, both seen and unseen,

Whose presence beyond human minds transcends,
Whose light and mercy forever resolute.

Behold the One, the source of all creation,
Whose wisdom weaves the fabric of the skies,

Whose love ignites the flame of adoration,
Whose justice guides us with unerring eyes.

No mortal tongue can fully comprehend,
The boundless depths of Allah's majesty,

Yet with humility, we humbly bend,
In awe of His divine supremacy.

Oh Allah, source of all that is, has been,
To praise Your name, our souls forever lean.

Though finite minds may strive to understand,
Your infinitude eludes our grasp.

We bow in reverence, at Your command,
For only You encompass all that's vast.

From galaxies that twirl in cosmic dance,
To atoms in the smallest grain of sand,

In every heartbeat, each fleeting glance,
Your presence permeates throughout the land.

No limits bind You, nor the bounds of time,
For You exist beyond this mortal plane,

In the eternal realm where souls align,
And find solace in Your holy domain.

Oh Allah, timeless and forever true,
We offer our devotion unto You.

There is but one, a gift to all who roam.

To sing the praises of a truth profound,
That echoes through the universe's bound.

Behold, the theme that guides my quill this day,
"Only one Allah" I shall proudly say,

For in His oneness lies a cosmic truth,
The source of all existence from His booth.

From galaxies that swirl in empty space,
To every blade of grass, each human face,

One Allah reigns supreme, the sole divine,
A truth that's woven through all space and time.

No deity beside Him can we find,
For one Allah encompasses all kind,

No idols, gods, or deities can claim,
The glory of His everlasting name.

From deserts vast to oceans deep and wide,
One Allah's majesty we can't hide,

In every sunrise, sunset's golden hue,
His presence whispers, clear and ever true.

The mountains rise as monuments of might,
And rivers flow, a testament of light,

In every kernel, blossom, leaf, and tree,
One Allah's signs, for all the world to see.

Yet in our hearts, confusion often reigns,
As worldly distractions cloud our domains,

But through the noise, we seek a deeper truth,
To find solace in the oneness of youth.

For when we surrender to Allah's embrace,
A sense of peace and purpose we embrace,

In unity, we find our truest self,
And connect with the divine within our shelf.

So let this sonnet echo far and wide,
Proclaiming the oneness we can't hide,

For in "Only one Allah" we find peace,
And through His love, all worldly worries cease.

In every breath we take, let this be known,
That "Only one Allah" is our backbone,

And through His grace, we rise above the strife,
Embracing oneness as the key to life.

In the realm of words, I shall strive to weave
A tapestry of praise for Allah, King

Of all creation, in this sonnet grand.
Oh, lofty task, to capture in my lines

The majesty that birthed this wondrous world,
To sing of Allah's might, His boundless love.

Creator of the heavens and the earth,
The stars that sparkle in the midnight sky,

The mountains tall and rivers that meander,
All creatures, big and small, both wild and tame,

All owe their being to His gracious hand.
His wisdom, like a beacon, guides us all,

His mercy, like a balm, soothes every wound.

Oh, Allah, Master Architect divine,

You fashioned every atom, every cell,
And breathed life into dust, creating man.

You shaped the mountains with Your gentle touch,
And set the oceans free to ebb and flow.

Your artistry is seen in every flower,
Each petal, hue, and scent, a masterpiece.

In every sunrise and in every sunset,
In every season's change, we see Your hand.

From the tiniest ant to the mighty whale,
From the soaring eagle to the humble bee,

Each creature bears Your mark, Your loving care.

Oh, Allah, hear my humble words of praise,

Accept this offering, this poet's ode,
A feeble attempt to honor Your name.

For who am I, a mortal soul, to dare
To comprehend Your vastness, Your grandeur

But still, I strive to capture but a glimpse
Of Your eternal beauty, Your pure light.

Oh, Allah, King of all creation, hear
This humble plea, this poet's prayer to You:

Grant me the strength to live a life of love,
To seek Your guidance in each passing day,

To cherish every soul, for all are Yours.
And when my time on earth comes to an end,

May I find solace in Your loving arms,
And in eternity, may I proclaim,

With angels and with saints, Your holy name.

Oh, Creator of the world, Allah, my King,

To You I dedicate this lofty verse,

In awe and wonder of Your boundless grace.

Forever, in my heart, Your praise shall ring.

In the vast expanse of ethereal time,
Where galaxies danced, celestial ballet,

The Creator of the World, Allah sublime,
Crafted a realm where life would bloom and sway.

With tender care, He formed the cosmic dust,
Molding the heavens with a gentle hand,

A masterpiece, from chaos to robust,
A symphony of worlds at His command.

From swirling galaxies to sparkling stars,
From mountains high to rivers flowing wide,

Allah's creation, each detail bizarre,
A testament to His creative pride.

Oh, Allah, the Artist, the Divine,
We stand in awe of Your grand design.

From the depth of oceans to the heights of skies,
Allah's creation astounds and delights,

With every creature, great and small in size,
Each perfectly placed, every hue just right.

The lion's majestic stride, fierce and bold,
The butterfly's gentle, graceful flight,

The buzzing bees, their honey pots of gold,
The eagle soaring, reaching for the light.

From the towering peaks to the forests deep,
Nature's symphony, a harmonious song,

Allah's creation, a treasure to keep,
A testament to His wisdom so strong.

Oh, Allah, the Maker, the Supreme,
Your creation, a masterpiece, supreme.

In every corner of this wondrous Earth,
Allah's touch is felt, His presence known,

The vibrant colors, the sounds of mirth,
A canvas of beauty that He has sown.

The desert sands, a golden tapestry,
The oceans vast, their waves a rhythmic dance,

The whispering breeze through a verdant tree,
All bear Allah's mark, His divine romance.

From the crimson dawn to twilight's embrace,
Allah's creation, a gift to behold,

The sun's warm kiss, the moon's gentle grace,
His wonders, a tale that will never grow old.

Oh, Allah, the Creator, the Divine,
In Your world, true beauty we find.

So let us marvel at Allah's creation,
And cherish every living thing we see,

For in each creature lies a revelation,
A glimpse of His boundless majesty.

For Allah, the Creator, has bestowed,
A world of wonder, a sacred abode,

Where every creature finds its rightful place,
And His love and mercy we can embrace.

Oh, Allah, the Master, the Supreme,
Your creation, a testament, we deem.

In lands adorned with hues of vibrant grace,
Where cultures interweave like golden thread,

A truth resounds, a sacred bond embraced,
Unveiling glimpses of the One ahead.

With voices raised, they call upon His name,
In reverence, surrendering to His might,

For in their hearts, the flames of faith aflame,
They claim, "Only one Allah, shining bright."

No matter tongues that dance upon their lips,
Or customs that define their earthly stay,

Their spirits, bound by love's celestial grips,
Unite in one refrain, their souls convey.

For in this vast and boundless cosmic dance,
They find solace in the One's divine glance.

From distant shores where sunsets gently weep,
To mountains crowned with white and gleaming snow,

The echoes of devotion rise and seep,
Through valleys where life's sacred waters flow.

In humble mosques that grace the desert's sand,
And temples draped in fragrant incense haze,

The faithful gather, hand in hand,
To sing the One's eternal, timeless praise.

For in their hearts, a truth forever gleams,
A truth that echoes through eternity,

That in this vast and wondrous realm of dreams,
There is but one, the source of all serenity.

Through melodies that soar like birds in flight,
And prayers that whisper softly in the night,

They seek the essence of life's sacred bond,
In every breath, in every step they take,

For in their quest, the faithful have responded,
To the call that beckons them to awake.

In unity, they find the strength to stand,
Against the tides that threaten to divide,

For in their hearts, they hold a precious hand,
That leads them to a love they can't hide.

So let the world bear witness to their creed,
That "Only one Allah," they proclaim,

For in this truth, their spirits interweave,
Creating harmony, a sacred flame.

In lands adorned with hues of vibrant grace,
Where cultures interweave like golden thread,

The faithful gather, side by side, to face,
The truth that binds them, as they are led.

For in their hearts, the flames of faith shall burn,
And through their love, the world shall ever learn,

That in this vast expanse we call our home,
There is but one, a gift to all who roam.

In realms where words are woven into art,
A sonnet grand, with depth and grace I'll start,

To sing the praises of a truth profound,
That echoes through the universe's bound.

Behold, the theme that guides my quill this day,
"Only one Allah" I shall proudly say,

For in His oneness lies a cosmic truth,
The source of all existence from His booth.

From galaxies that swirl in empty space,
To every blade of grass, each human face,

One Allah reigns supreme, the sole divine,
A truth that's woven through all space and time.

No deity beside Him can we find,
For one Allah encompasses all kind,

No idols, gods, or deities can claim,
The glory of His everlasting name.

From deserts vast to oceans deep and wide,
One Allah's majesty we can't hide,

In every sunrise, sunset's golden hue,
His presence whispers, clear and ever true.

The mountains rise as monuments of might,
And rivers flow, a testament of light,

In every kernel, blossom, leaf, and tree,
One Allah's signs, for all the world to see.

Yet in our hearts, confusion often reigns,
As worldly distractions cloud our domains,

But through the noise, we seek a deeper truth,
To find solace in the oneness of youth.

For when we surrender to Allah's embrace,
A sense of peace and purpose we embrace,

In unity, we find our truest self,
And connect with the divine within our shelf.

So let this sonnet echo far and wide,
Proclaiming the oneness we can't hide,

For in "Only one Allah" we find peace,
And through His love, all worldly worries cease.

In every breath we take, let this be known,
That "Only one Allah" is our backbone,
And through His grace, we rise above the strife,
Embracing oneness as the key to life.

In the realm of words, I shall strive to weave
A tapestry of praise for Allah, King

Of all creation, in this sonnet grand.
Oh, lofty task, to capture in my lines

The majesty that birthed this wondrous world,
To sing of Allah's might, His boundless love.

Creator of the heavens and the earth,
The stars that sparkle in the midnight sky,

The mountains tall and rivers that meander,
All creatures, big and small, both wild and tame,

All owe their being to His gracious hand.
His wisdom, like a beacon, guides us all,

His mercy, like a balm, soothes every wound.

Oh, Allah, Master Architect divine,

You fashioned every atom, every cell,
And breathed life into dust, creating man.

You shaped the mountains with Your gentle touch,
And set the oceans free to ebb and flow.

Your artistry is seen in every flower,
Each petal, hue, and scent, a masterpiece.

In every sunrise and in every sunset,
In every season's change, we see Your hand.

From the tiniest ant to the mighty whale,
From the soaring eagle to the humble bee,

Each creature bears Your mark, Your loving care.

Oh, Allah, hear my humble words of praise,

Accept this offering, this poet's ode,
A feeble attempt to honor Your name.

For who am I, a mortal soul, to dare
To comprehend Your vastness, Your grandeur

But still, I strive to capture but a glimpse
Of Your eternal beauty, Your pure light.

Oh, Allah, King of all creation, hear
This humble plea, this poet's prayer to You:

Grant me the strength to live a life of love,
To seek Your guidance in each passing day,

To cherish every soul, for all are Yours.
And when my time on earth comes to an end,

May I find solace in Your loving arms,
And in eternity, may I proclaim,

With angels and with saints, Your holy name.

Oh, Creator of the world, Allah, my King,

To You I dedicate this lofty verse,

In awe and wonder of Your boundless grace.

Forever, in my heart, Your praise shall ring.

In the vast expanse of ethereal time,
Where galaxies danced, celestial ballet,

The Creator of the World, Allah sublime,
Crafted a realm where life would bloom and sway.

With tender care, He formed the cosmic dust,
Molding the heavens with a gentle hand,

A masterpiece, from chaos to robust,
A symphony of worlds at His command.

From swirling galaxies to sparkling stars,
From mountains high to rivers flowing wide,

Allah's creation, each detail bizarre,
A testament to His creative pride.

Oh, Allah, the Artist, the Divine,
We stand in awe of Your grand design.

From the depth of oceans to the heights of skies,
Allah's creation astounds and delights,

With every creature, great and small in size,
Each perfectly placed, every hue just right.

The lion's majestic stride, fierce and bold,
The butterfly's gentle, graceful flight,

The buzzing bees, their honey pots of gold,
The eagle soaring, reaching for the light.

From the towering peaks to the forests deep,
Nature's symphony, a harmonious song,

Allah's creation, a treasure to keep,
A testament to His wisdom so strong.

A world of wonder, a sacred abode,

Where every creature finds its rightful place,
And His love and mercy we can embrace.

Oh, Allah, the Master, the Supreme,
Your creation, a testament, we deem.

Forgive me, Allah, for sins I've committed,
In moments of weakness, my soul was split.

I strayed from the path, my heart heavy with guilt,
In search of solace, my spirit wilted.

I beseech thee, O Merciful and Wise,
To grant me forgiveness, my soul cries.

For I have erred, in thoughts and in deeds,
In times of darkness, I failed to heed.

Your love, O Allah, is boundless and vast,
Your grace and mercy, forever will last.

With repentance, I turn to Thee in shame,
Hoping forgiveness, in Your Holy name.

Grant me the strength to amend my ways,
To seek Your guidance, throughout my days.

For in Your forgiveness, lies my release,
A chance for redemption, a path to peace.

Oh, Allah, cleanse my heart, make it pure,
Help me to endure, in times that are sure.

With every breath, I seek Your embrace,
For in Your mercy, I find solace and grace.

Guide me, O Lord, on the righteous path,
Fill my spirit with love, and banish wrath.

Forgive me, Allah, for my transgressions,
Grant me salvation, in Your divine blessings.

In Your forgiveness, I find sanctuary,
A refuge for my soul, a sanctuary.

With humility, I implore Your pardon,
In the hope of finding peace, my burden.

Forgive me, Allah, for I am but weak,
But with Your forgiveness, my spirit will speak.

In repentance, I find strength and renewal,
In Your mercy, my soul finds its revival.

So, forgive me, Allah, and guide my way,
Lead me to righteousness, day by day.

In Your forgiveness, I find redemption,
A chance to rise above my imperfection.

For You are the One, the Forgiving, the Just,
In Your presence, I place my trust.

Forgive me, Allah, and grant me Your light,
To walk in righteousness, both day and night.

Forgive me, Allah, for my wayward ways,
For straying from the path You've set for me.

In moments of weakness, my heart betrays,
And I lose sight of the truth I should see.

I seek forgiveness, as the lost may do,
With heavy soul burdened by my mistakes.

I tremble, fearing Your wrath that is true,
Yet hope for mercy, for Your love awakes.

Oh, Allah, in Your boundless grace I find,
The solace and strength to rise again.

With tears of remorse, my faults I unbind,
Hoping redemption will wash away my pain.

I pledge to follow Your guiding light,
To walk the path of righteousness, so bright.

Though I falter and stumble, I'll persevere,
With steadfast faith, I'll never lose my way.
